ABOUT CONFERENCE

The The North American Oil and Gas Transition Summit 2026 will bring together senior executives, technology leaders, investors, and policymakers to define the roadmap for a smarter, cleaner, and more competitive oil and gas industry. As the sector accelerates toward modernization, the summit focuses on how innovation, policy, and investment are transforming every layer of upstream, midstream, and downstream operations.

This year's discussions are strategies driving decarbonization and low-carbon operations, along with the reuse of existing midstream infrastructure for emerging fuels such as hydrogen, CNG, and LNG. Attendees will also explore how AI, blockchain, and cybersecurity are enabling smarter, safer, and more connected operations across the oil and gas value chain.

The conference further examines the evolution of the Refinery of the Future, where digitalization, flexibility, and carbon-neutral operations redefine efficiency and profitability. Sessions will also highlight next-generation subsurface innovation, circular economy models, and waste-to-energy solutions that unlock sustainable growth while optimizing asset performance.

Complementing these technological and operational themes, the agenda delves into capital strategies for decarbonized oil and gas and evolving energy security and policy frameworks that balance sustainability with supply. The summit serves as a vital platform for collaboration, guiding the North American oil and gas sector through its most critical decade of transition and opportunity.

ATTENDEE JOB FUNCTIONS

- ✓ Oil & Gas Operators
- ✓ Energy & Utilities Companies
- ✓ Petrochemical & Refining Companies
- ✓ Engineering, Procurement & Construction (EPC) Firms
- ✓ Pipeline & Midstream Infrastructure Companies
- ✓ Technology & Digital Solutions Providers
- ✓ Industrial Automation & Control System Vendors
- ✓ Research Institutes & Universities
- ✓ Power Generation Companies (Conventional & Renewables)
- ✓ Engineering & Technical Services Firms
- ✓ Equipment & Machinery Manufacturers
- ✓ Maritime, Shipping & Transport Support Services
- ✓ Energy Consulting & Advisory Firms
- ✓ Government, Regulatory & Policy Bodies
- ✓ Workforce Development & Training Bodies
- ✓ Industrial AI, Data & Analytics Solution Providers
- ✓ Hydrogen, CCUS & Low-Carbon Technology Developers
- ✓ Utilities & Grid Management Organizations
- ✓ OEMs and Industrial Technology Manufacturers
- ✓ Global Energy Transition Market Analysts & Think Tanks
- ✓ Investment, Private Equity & Financial Institutions

Reconnecting AI to Reality: How Process Analyzers Enable the Intelligent, Flexible and Low-Carbon Refinery

- Real-Time Measurement as the Foundation for Trustworthy Industrial AI – Continuous process analyser data provides AI with verified, real-time information about actual process conditions and product quality. This helps reduce model drift, constrain AI recommendations within observed operating boundaries and maintain reliable performance as crude composition and operating conditions change.
- Closing the Loop Between AI Optimisation and the Physical Process – Combining high-quality analyser measurements with digital twins, predictive models and deep reinforcement learning (DRL) enables optimisation strategies to continuously adapt to changing plant conditions. This creates a more responsive approach than optimisation based primarily on historical data or static models.
- Turning AI Predictions into Measurable Operational Results – Connecting AI recommendations directly to measured hydrocarbon composition and product quality makes optimisation explainable, auditable and operationally relevant. This can help refineries improve energy efficiency, product consistency and operating flexibility while reducing emissions and supporting the transition towards lower-carbon refining.

They Didn't Hack In, They Logged In: BeyondTrust on Closing the Identity and Privilege Gaps in OT

- The most consequential OT incidents of the last few years didn't start with an exotic zero-day; they started with access that was already there.
- This session walks a real, phase-by-phase attack chain from 2026, including a coordinated strike on U.S. critical infrastructure and a very different AI-driven failure from the same month that shares the exact same root cause.
- Walk away with five control categories that would have stopped both, no new technology required.
- The hard part was never finding the problem. It's what you do next.

Turning Data to Action: Converting SCADA Signals Into Automatically Dispatched, Verified, Auto-Approved Field Work

- The Opportunity: SCADA tells you the tank is filling. It doesn't dispatch the truck, verify the load, or approve the ticket. That gap is where the cost sits.
- How It Works: Predictive, automated job creation and dispatch from SCADA readings, multi-point validation against GPS and metered volumes, and automated ticket approval into accounting systems.
- The Results: How we save >15% on hauling costs, learnings from multiple field deployments, and what does the future look like for automated SCADA workflows?

Merina Leong
Product Manager, Automations,
Ironsight

11:00

The Prediction Layer: Why the Future of BI Is Not a Better Dashboard Session

- Moving from descriptive analytics to predictive and prescriptive operational intelligence.
- Embedding AI-driven forecasting into existing BI and operational systems without replacing legacy infrastructure.
- Using predictive intelligence to anticipate equipment failures, supply chain disruptions, and capital allocation risks.
- Designing decision workflows that deliver the right insights to the right leaders in real time.
- Measuring the impact of AI through faster decisions, improved operational performance, and reduced downtime.

A practical path to safer, more resilient, data-driven operations using edge computing, sovereign AI, and a proven cloud partner.

- Using edge computing and sovereign AI to strengthen safety, resilience, and operational efficiency.
- Aligning digital technologies with existing processes and organizational culture.
- Applying a connect, compute, protect, and learn approach to unlock real-time operational insights.
- Improving decision-making through integrated, secure, and data-driven operations.
- Building scalable digital operations through proven cloud capabilities and predictable economics.

Industrial AI Without Accountability: Why AI Initiatives Fail to Scale and How Energy Leaders Can Turn Innovation Into Impact

- The energy industry is rapidly investing in AI, automation, and advanced analytics, but many organizations are discovering that successful transformation requires more than deploying new technology. Without clear ownership, governance, operational alignment, and measurable business outcomes, AI initiatives often remain disconnected pilots rather than enterprise-wide drivers of performance.
- Drawing from more than 30 years of leadership experience across energy, technology, and enterprise transformation, including global leadership roles at Halliburton Landmark Services, Steve Senterfit explores why industrial AI efforts stall and what leaders can do differently. This session will examine how oil and gas organizations can create accountability frameworks that connect AI investments to operational priorities, workforce adoption, and measurable value creation.
- Why AI initiatives fail when accountability and ownership are unclear

14:00

AI PEOPLE Transformation, Building the Human Operating System for Intelligent Energy

- The Human Side of AI Adoption: Why successful AI and digital transformation depend on leadership, trust, culture, and workforce readiness, not technology alone.
- Preparing the Workforce for Intelligent Operations: How organizations can reskill and upskill employees to work effectively alongside AI, automation, and emerging technologies.
- From Resistance to Readiness: The critical role of Organizational Change Management in accelerating adoption and reducing resistance to digital transformation.
- From Industry 4.0 to Industry 5.0: Why the future of Oil & Gas must balance advanced technology with human-centric leadership, collaboration, and sustainable workforce development.

Sonia Clayton
President & CEO,
Virtual Intelligence Providers

From Prompt to Plant: Leveraging AI and Automation to Accelerate Process Design, Reduce Engineering Bottlenecks, and Unlock Millions in Industrial Optimization

- How AI-powered engineering tools can reduce early-stage process design time from weeks to minutes while improving consistency, collaboration, and iteration speed across multidisciplinary teams.
- Why even a 1-2% missed optimization in production, energy efficiency, or emissions can cost industrial plants millions annually—and how automation helps capture that value.
- A practical roadmap for integrating AI-driven digital workflows into existing oil & gas and industrial environments without disrupting legacy systems like Aspen, DWSIM, or traditional engineering tools.

Miras Muratov
Founder & CEO,
ScaleApp

15:30

From Connected Assets to Decision Systems: AI, IoT and the Economics of Industrial Digitalization

- Transitioning from connected assets and IoT deployments to enterprise-wide decision systems.
- Building scalable edge-to-cloud architectures for reliable industrial AI and automation.
- Integrating AI, IoT, digital twins, and operational data into resilient digital operating models.
- Strengthening governance, cybersecurity, and data reliability for production-scale digitalization.
- Measuring the economic value of industrial AI through improved efficiency, reliability, and operational performance.
